

1stWorks Corporation
Connectivity & Collaboration Technology

hotComm Pro

Remember when your teacher showed that movie about dating?

Blending multi-media with text-based course content is the next step in on-line learning. If you're a training professional, educator or student learn how you can benefit from hotComm Pro and its powerful set of interactive conferencing, collaboration, and real-time multi-media presentation tools. The widest range of multimedia content can be easily and instantly shared, from PowerPoint presentations to full motion video, from Microsoft Word and Excel to digital news articles located anywhere on the web.

Secure and reliable messaging, Voice over IP, and full motion video are included in hotComm Pro - use the integrated multi-media capabilities and polling features during your next training session. hotComm Pro is easy to setup and use. No need to translate your training material to web-based format because hotComm Pro supports all PC and web-based content presentation formats. Quiz, test or even pop questions can be created on the fly or from a pre-defined list and sent to your students.

No need to use a costly outside conferencing service or manually dial each person's phone number. With hotComm Pro's On-Demand voice and video conferencing technology you can host or join meetings in just a few clicks, right from your desktop. Physical location is no longer a problem with hotComm Pro - you are just a few clicks away from another student, your professor or the course instructor.

Want to review a lesson or discuss a specific issue while you are on-line? No problem- hotComm Pro supports desktop collaboration, co-browsing of web pages, collaboration on any document type, real-time viewing of video media, file sharing, application sharing, and interactive whiteboard discussions. Your students can participate with you, and other presenters, from the convenience of their desktop.

hotComm Pro users have more time to research that new article, draft and refine that term paper, or to add new content to their teaching assignments. Now your time can be spent, where it should be, with your colleagues and your class. Never be without that important document or any other important resource. If it is on your system, it can be shared with your students, spontaneously and securely. No need to create both PC- and web-based materials. With hotComm Pro all of your information is ready for the web.

Contact our sales department at sales@1stWorks.com for a more detailed explanation and live demo of this breakthrough technology. You can also visit us at www.hotComm.com to review and try our family of exciting "Work-on-the-Web" solutions for Sales, Product Support, Training, Customer Service, Marketing, and Interactive Web Conferencing.

Joseph Ferrazano - Director of Marketing, 1stWorks Corporation
You may also visit my Private Website at <http://joseph-f.ezpeer.net>